Welcome Walkers!

Walkers — Your participation today mirrors the spirit of Los Angeles' original settlers, "Los Pobladores" and celebrates the contributions of generations of people who settled the region. You follow in the footsteps of the original settlers whose walk 228 years ago from San Gabriel Mission, along what is now known as Mission Road, led to the establishment of El Pueblo de la Reina de Los Angeles (The Town of the Queen of Angels).

Reenactment — The Walk reenacts the 1781 trek of the original Spanish settlers of Los Angeles, known as Los Pobladores. The Pobladores were NOT Spanish grandes! They were mostly poor farmers and soldiers who were recruited from northwest Mexico by Felipe de Neve, Governor of the Californias. Like San Gabriel and Los Angeles today, the Pobladores were a racially diverse group. Over half were of partial African ancestry. They were a mixture of Native American, African, and European. They came in two groups across the hot deserts of Sonora and Baja California, and the staging area where they prepared for their objective was the 10-year-old San Gabriel Mission (f.1771). Here at the mission, they rested and were outfitted and oriented by Governor de Neve for their new homes along what is now known as the Los Angeles River.

The Mission — Established on September 8, 1771 by Padres Antonio Camero and Pedro Cambo, under the direction of Fr. Junipero Serra, San Gabriel Mission celebrates 238 years with the "238th Fiesta de San Gabriel" from Fri., 9/4 — Sun., 9/6. Join us over the Labor Day Weekend at Fiesta to celebrate San Gabriel, "Birthplace of the Los Angeles Region!"

A City is Born — During the first week in September 1781, 44 people in 11 families, plus four soldiers left Mission San Gabriel and proceeded nine miles down the trail to the river. There, on September 4, 1781, they established El Pueblo de la Reina de Los Angeles (The Town of the Queen of Angels) — today, the great City of Los Angeles — one of the world's greatest metropolitan cities!

A twelfth settler, Antonio Miranda Rodriguez, a 50-year-old Filipino was also slated to settle in the new pueblo, but his daughter fell ill to smallpox in Loreto (Baja California), and he remained in Loreto.

*The heads of Los Angeles' eleven founding families were Antonio Clemente Villavicencio, a Spaniard; Antonio Mesa, a Negro; Jose Fernando Lara, a Spaniard; Jose Vanegas, an Indian; Pablo Rodriguez, an Indian; Manuel Camero, a Mulatto; Jose Antonio Navarro, a Mestizo; Jose Moreno, a Mulatto; Jose Basilio Rosas, an Indian; Alejandro Rosas, an Indian; and Luis Quintero, a Negro. The Spanish soldiers who escorted the Pobladores to the new pueblo were Corporal Jose Vicente Feliz; Private Pablo Antonio de Cota; Private Roque Jacinto de Cota, and Private Francisco Salvador de Lugo. Los Pobladores 200 — The descendants of the original settlers of Los Angeles organized themselves on the 200th anniversary of the founding of El Pueblo de Los Angeles to become Los Pobladores 200. Los Pobladores descendants are recognized by the red sash worn around their waist.
